Thank you notes written by Facing History students to Nate Leipziger, a Holocaust survivor and a committed leader in Holocaust education, after his visit to their classroom in Woburn, Canada.

Dear Nate,

Thank you so much for using your time to come here and share your experiences with us. It makes the Holocaust and its effects on real human beings far more clear to us than simply reading from a book. You have made us that much more capable of affecting positive change in our society.

Dear Mr. Leipziger,

Thank you very much for spending the afternoon with us and sharing your inspiring story. Your visit meant a lot to us. I can't imagine how difficult it must have been to experience all of it firsthand. It is still difficult for me to truly accept that this has happened. I hope that one day our world will live without hatred and discrimination. Your words have truly made a difference in my life. Thank you.

Dear Mr. Leipziger,

I would like to say thank you. Thank you very much for taking the time to tell us your story. I could never truly understand the way it feels to face such terrible atrocities, but your story has helped me to understand a bit more. The strength and courage you had while facing certain death is an inspiration to everyone. Thank you again for all that you have done.

My years with Facing History have been rich and satisfying beyond measure.

In February 2014, I shared the news with Facing History’s community that after 38 years as Executive Director, I planned to transition to the role of President Emerita and Senior Scholar.

My years with Facing History have been rich and satisfying beyond measure. I made this transition with confidence that our organization is strong, successful, and enduring. Together we have built an organization that educators value for the rigor of its content, the moral questions it raises, and the principles of cooperation it embodies. Together we have built an organization that engages millions of students around the globe with programs and materials that link theory and practice, content and methodology, school and community, head and heart. It is an organization that is poised for exponential growth.

Hannah Arendt, a 20th century philosopher and a witness to the history we study, wrote extensively about the particular and universal themes of history and human behavior. In her writings, she emphasized two types of work: the industry of one’s labor and the work of citizenship. I’ve discovered that it has been both an honor and a burden to seek excellence in both arenas. I am deeply grateful and appreciative for the opportunity you gave me to teach, learn, and practice in an environment in which we could create a community with a strong democratic culture.

As always, I look forward to hearing from you, continuing our conversations, and learning from you. Thank you.

and students grew worldwide in 2014.

We are poised to build significantly on this growth in 2015. This has been an exceptional year for Facing History, and I am grateful beyond words to begin working together with all of you to advance the mission so close to our hearts.

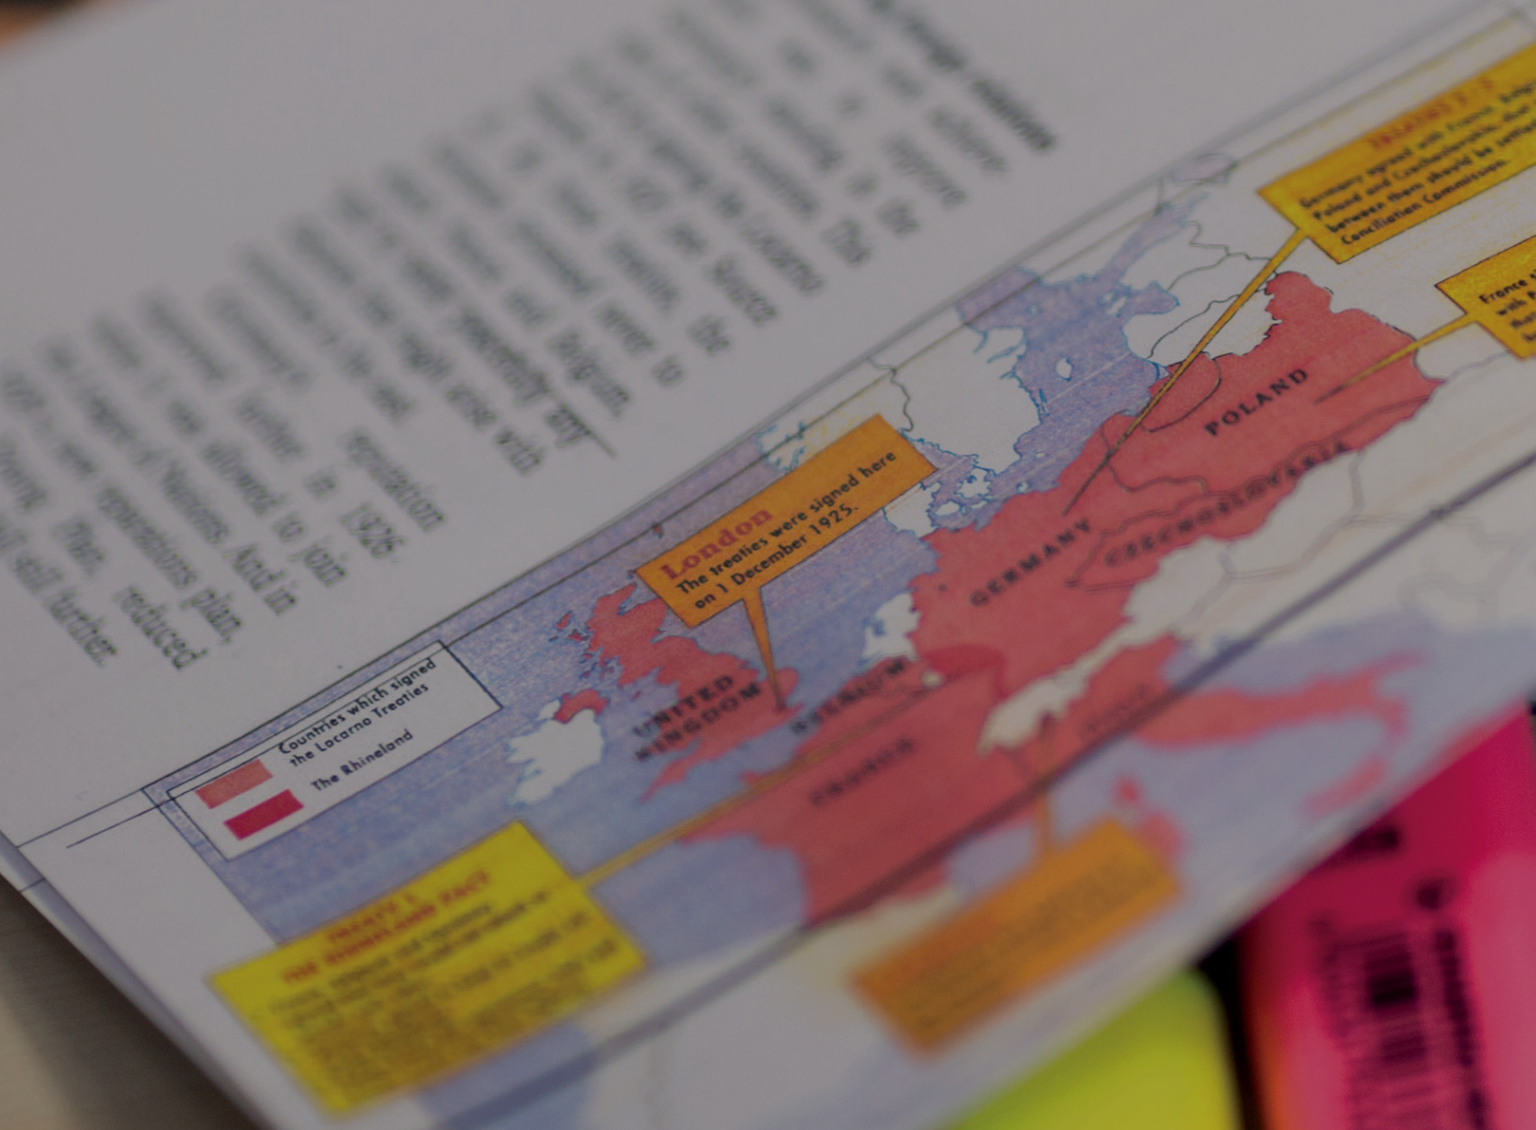

Facing History's impact is profound. Yet the demand around the world for our transformative work with educators and students increases exponentially every year. We're growing to meet this demand and are excellently positioned to do so with the intellectual rigor and compassion that are this organization's hallmarks.

I write during a time of transition. In 2014, Julie Leff and Tracy Palandjian were co-chairs of the board of directors. Now, Julie is the chair of the board. As of December 1, Margot Stern Strom moved into a new role at the organization, and I have joined as the new President and CEO. Through the collective energy of every Facing History staff member, advisory board member, and member of the board of directors and board of trustees, we are using this time of transition to rededicate ourselves to bringing even more opportunities to our constituents to access our services across the globe.

My thanks to all of you for your generosity and dedication. Together, we can build a better world for generations to come.

young people learning lessons that will serve them for their entire lives.

With stories of courage and compassion and a deep study of the decisions that lead to genocide and strife, we help students recognize the importance of everyone's story and the ability of each of us to make informed, moral choices. By creating innovative content and bringing it to educators so they can enrich their teaching and inspire their students, Facing History improves education worldwide.

We join you, our friends and supporters, in taking enormous pride in the accomplishments and contributions of this remarkable organization. On behalf of the boards of directors and trustees, it is our great pleasure to present Facing History and Ourselves' 2014 annual report.

Facing History is about the never-ending quest of perfecting our democracy, learning from the past, and learning to dig deep for the truth. Facing History is about adolescents learning lessons that will serve them for their entire lives so that when faced with competing demands for attention and time, our students will understand that each of us has the potential to become a perpetrator, bystander, victim, or rescuer, that the choice is often up to us, and that the indifference of bystanders sometimes enables evil to prevail while each individual's choice to be an upstander can change the course of history.

We want to extend our heartfelt gratitude to Dana Smith, co-chair of the Board of Trustees from November 2007 to November 2013, for her guidance, wisdom, and years of service to our organization. We are delighted that Dana's commitment to Facing History continues as she serves as a member of the Board of Directors and New England advisory board. As the organization transitions to its new President and Chief Executive Officer Roger Brooks while retaining the scholarship and quality which is the hallmark of Margot's work and leadership, we have every confidence that our board, the incredible staff in every department and region, and friends and supporters who have counseled and helped us grow for 38 years will continue to strengthen and deepen our work worldwide. Thank you for your outstanding commitment and generosity.

INNOVATIVE SCHOOLS NETWORK

Facing History's Innovative Schools Network is an international network of 62 schools that embrace Facing History's core themes as foundational to their mission. Educators from these schools share resources and best practices, develop professional ties with their peers, and receive ongoing coaching and support from Facing History. "What the network does for me is remind me that we are not in this work alone," says Belicia Reaves, principal of Capital City Public Charter School, an innovative school in Washington, D.C. The network reaches an estimated 15,000 students worldwide.

INNOVATIVE SCHOOLS HIGHLIGHTS

At Amy Biehl High School, an urban charter school in Albuquerque, New Mexico, 99 percent of graduates enroll directly into colleges. The school, part of Facing History’s Innovative Schools Network, values academic rigor while teaching students to apply and demonstrate skills and knowledge to analyze and address community needs. Through service, Amy Biehl students are challenged to play meaningful roles in their communities while developing leadership skills. For educators and administrators at Amy Biehl, Facing History is both a resource and a support. “We want an engaged citizenry, and we think we’re doing that with the help of Facing History,” says Michael May, former principal of Amy Biehl. “These are young people who can engage in critical discussions about complicated issues. They can provide evidence. They can stand on their own two feet and defend positions. And they can think creatively and write well. Those are clearly the skills and habits that you hope for in a student.”

Growing up in Memphis, Caitlin Ritch dreamed big. She wanted to win a Nobel Prize, go to Harvard Law School, and work at the intersection of human rights and collective violence. She wanted to make a difference. But over and over she heard the same refrain—your dreams are too big. Caitlin, a 2014 graduate of Arlington High School, never let her dreams go. As a junior, she took a Facing History elective that was offered district-wide in Memphis and, for the first time, realized that she had within her the tools and the voice to fulfill her big dreams. “Facing History taught me that history isn’t just something that’s written for me,” she says. “It’s something I can, and must, write for myself.” In high school, Caitlin was a member of the drama club, the Thespian Society, and the Model UN as well as president of the Speech and Debate Club. To support her education, she also worked as an assistant stage manager at a community theatre. She spent the summer after graduation interning at Facing History’s Memphis office and is currently studying law and international conflict resolution as a freshman at the University of California, Irvine. “Facing History inspired us to dig deep,” she says of her time in the classroom and outside of it, “to find the strength to do what is right, both for others and for ourselves.”

Expanding Facing History's Work in Jewish Educational Settings

Facing History received a five-year, $600,000 grant from the JIM JOSEPH FOUNDATION to support the expansion of its Partner Jewish Day Schools Project, which was established through a demonstration grant from the foundation. Through the Partner Schools Project, the Jewish Education team works with entire schools to facilitate a richer, more meaningful educational experience. Each partner school adapts Facing History's resources and pedagogy to create an environment that promotes engagement with Jewish history, civics, values, and ethics throughout the curriculum and outside the classroom. In FY14, the project expanded from eight to 14 schools and will add 14 additional schools in the next two years. Facing History's work in Jewish education also received support through a generous 2:1 challenge grant of $499,100 from an anonymous donor in FY14. To receive this grant, Facing History raised match funding of $988,200 in contributions and pledges from 19 generous individuals and foundations.

Investing in a Groundbreaking Resource

JILL GARLING, Vice Chair of the Board of Directors and past Chair of the Chicago Advisory Board, and TOM WILSON, CEO of Allstate, have provided leadership for Facing History since 1997. Now, the couple has offered major support for efforts to market Facing History's To Kill a Mockingbird study guide. This new study guide is the cornerstone of an ambitious multiyear initiative targeting English Language Arts teachers to increase Facing History's reach. Through Jill and Tom's generous grant, Facing History is implementing a marketing initiative that includes: a back-to-school campaign that will reach our growing network of 95,916 educators and 54,706 social media followers; outreach through the National Council for Teachers of English, National Council for the Social Studies, and Teaching Tolerance; and placement of articles, advertisements, and blog posts that build on Facing History's growing media presence. Facing History received an estimated 6.2 million media impressions* in 2014.

*Media impressions are the number of people who may have seen an article, heard something on the radio or in a podcast, watched something on television, or viewed or read something on a web page or blog that mentions Facing History. This number was calculated based on the circulation for each media outlet.

Meeting Common Core State Standards

Facing History has received a two-year grant of $231,000 from THE BILL & MELINDA GATES FOUNDATION. The grant supports our work to help teachers meet Common Core State Standards through an integrated online and in-person approach. Made through the Gates Foundation's Teach Practice Network initiative, FY14 was the first year of the project. In year one, we expanded the support offered to teachers, schools, and districts adopting instructional shifts contained in the Common Core State Standards. Twelve exemplary Facing History teachers developed and piloted their Common Core-aligned tasks and modules based on our content, presented them to 200 educators, and participated in focus groups about the process, where they overwhelmingly spoke to the value of the modules. In FY15, we will disseminate the best of the tasks and modules through our website and day-long Common Core summits across the country.

Commitment in New England

SAUL PANNELL, who serves on the Board of Directors, and SALLY CURRIER began their direct involvement with Facing History in 2006 and have become strong supporters and leaders of the organization. Saul and Sally co-chaired the 2013 New England Benefit Dinner with Jody and Andy Snider. The event raised $1,000,000 for Facing History. At the dinner, Saul, the son of Holocaust survivors, spoke of his involvement with Facing History both as a director and lifetime learner. He chairs the Program Task Force, partnering with Chief Program Officer Marc Skvirsky. Last May, Saul and Sally travelled to Poland with Facing History leaders, board members, and staff to learn about the legacy of the Holocaust and its imprint on Polish society. Through their commitment to Facing History, Saul and Sally believe that more students are developing a strong moral compass and a deeper understanding of how to get along better in an increasingly globalized society.

Increasing Our Global Reach

MAJA KRISTIN began her involvement with Facing History in 2007 through the RockRose Institute, a nonprofit that she co-founded that supports, promotes, and advances nonviolent conflict resolution. Maja's commitment to Facing History aligns with her passion for bridging differences, unlocking potential for connection, and engaging in creative problem solving. Maja recently made a major grant to increase Facing History's profile and visibility in California as well as nationally and internationally. She provided resources to enable Facing History to accelerate our ability to increase public awareness and catalyze several initiatives to engage new audiences in our critical mission. Two high-visibility opportunities in California included LA2050 and Social Innovation Fast Pitch, both of which positioned Facing History in social innovation and philanthropic communities. In addition to the acceleration of local public engagement initiatives for broad impact, Maja's support helped amplify organization-wide initiatives to reach even more people in support of Facing History's goals: Facing History Together, new marketing and communication to varied audiences, and an exciting public service announcement outreach campaign.

Growing Our International Work

Jonathan Och and RITA HALBRIGHT have been involved with Facing History for more than 10 years and key supporters of Facing History, Ltd., Facing History's London entity, since its inception in 2005. They have recently made a major multiyear commitment to support its work. Rita, outgoing chair of Facing History's UK Advisory Board, is co-founder of Halcyon London International School, an international baccalaureate school where humanities and English teachers employ Facing History resources and methodology. Since 2005, thanks to the support of Rita and Jon and the London Advisory Board, nearly 1,000 British educators have participated in Facing History programming, reaching an estimated 100,000 students annually. In addition to work in the UK, the London entity serves as Facing History's international training hub and has hosted seven Facing History seminars focused on the Holocaust and human behavior that brought together British educators and teachers from countries around the world, including Northern Ireland, Rwanda, South Africa, Israel, Poland, and Mexico.

2014 GIFT REPORT

A Message from

Lisa Mooney

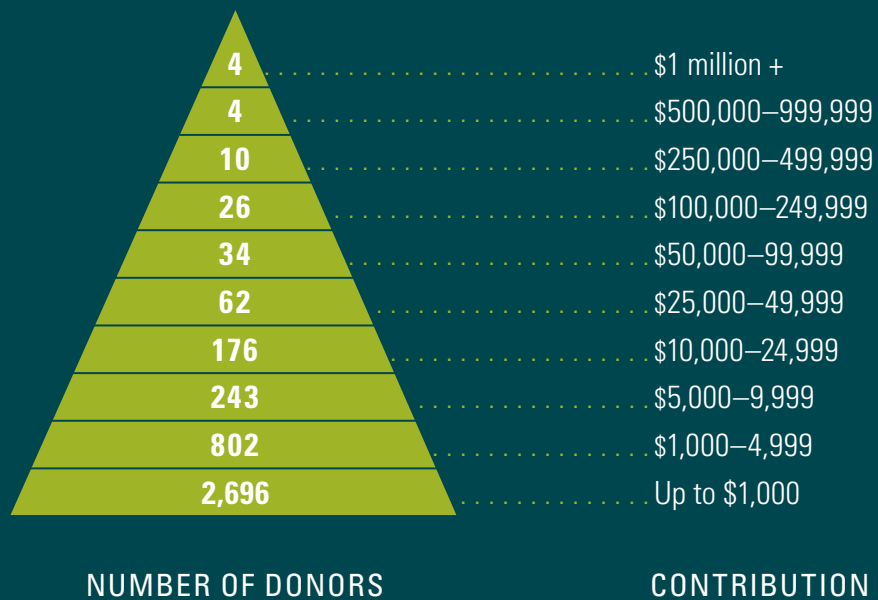

Chair of the Development Committee

Giving to Facing History and Ourselves continued to be very strong in fiscal year 2014, with a record 4,000 donors contributing $24.79 million in support of our work around the globe. As we enter the third year of a five-year growth plan that will enable us to double our impact on educators and students worldwide, we do so with more than $70 million of our $125 million growth goal secured as of June 30, 2014.

This year, we expanded our network of implementing teachers to more than 35,000 educators, who reached 3.5 million students with Facing History's remarkable teaching and learning strategies and materials.

We continue to fund the majority of our operating budget with gifts and grants from individuals, foundations, and corporations, and we are grateful for your strong confidence and unstinting generosity.

SUSTAINING GIFT PROGRAM

For more than three decades, Facing History has engaged students in the study of history and ethical decision making in order to teach civic responsibility, tolerance, courage, and compassion. With increasing demand from schools and teachers, and impact data that demonstrates the continued effectiveness of our work, Facing History depends on the increased investment of annual support from leadership donors to reach more students each year.

Multiyear commitments and annual gifts of $100,000 or more are recognized in the Sustaining Gift Program, which has grown to include 82 families, foundations, and corporations. These major commitments are the cornerstone of our work and program planning. This list reflects commitments or gifts received from July 1, 2013, to June 30, 2014.

INDIVIDUALS

Facing History gratefully acknowledges everyone who has made a gift to support our program. We recognize our multiyear donors who have made commitments of up to $99,999 by italicizing their names in the listing below. This list does not include gifts or pledges made after June 30, 2014, for the fall and winter benefits in Cleveland, Los Angeles, Memphis, and New York City.

We take great care to honor donors' wishes as to how they should be listed, particularly in regard to family foundations. A number of these foundations will be found under Foundation listings.

The following individuals made gifts or pledges of $1,000 or more to Facing History and Ourselves between July 1, 2013, and June 30, 2014. Included in this list are gifts to the Annual Campaign, which provides yearly operating support for Facing History and Ourselves, as well as contributions to Facing History Limited, Facing History and Ourselves in Canada, and to our permanently restricted fund. Thank you to the many generous donors who enable us to continue to bring new ideas to educators and the young people whom they teach.

“Facing History allows students to open up their minds and gain new perspectives on who we are and why people do the things they do. This is not just a curriculum; it is an overall positive approach that we can all use more of in life.”

STUDENTS ENGAGED WITH SURVIVOR
SPEAKERS IN 2014

For over 40 years, Nate Leipziger, a Holocaust survivor, has shared his testimony of courage and survival in the face of horrific adversity with people of all ages and has inspired thousands to become upstanders in their communities and in the world.

PERMANENTLY RESTRICTED (ENDOWED) AND SPECIAL FUNDS

Many friends of Facing History have helped to establish the following endowed and special funds that support particular aspects of Facing History's work. Donors to these funds between July 1, 2013, and June 30, 2014, are listed below.

REV. ROBERT W. BULLOCK INTERNATIONAL FELLOWSHIP

This fellowship program brings scholars to Facing History to lend their expertise to Facing History staff, teachers, and the community at large.

THE DAVID & LILLIAN CASTY FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

This program promotes a scholarly exchange and cultivates global ambassadors for Facing History by bringing a journalist, scholar, or resource speaker to Facing History for a year of residency.

LEO DUNN ENDOWED FUND

This fund supports the purchase of books and resource materials for the Facing History Library and Resource Center.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST ENDOWMENT FUND FOR SUMMER SEMINARS

This fund provides support for Facing History's summer seminars in New York.

THE BETH AND SETH KLARMAN INNOVATION FUND

In honor of Beth and Seth Klarman, this fund is directed by Facing History's Executive Director to fund new ideas, innovations, and initiatives that advance the mission of Facing History and Ourselves.

William & Lia Poorvu

THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR ENDOWED FUND

This fund has been established to endow the Executive Directorship of Facing History and Ourselves.

REMEMBRANCE SOCIETY

In 1994, two wonderful friends and board members of Facing History, Sandra and Philip Gordon, started the Remembrance Society, a group of supporters who have chosen to make planned gifts to Facing History and Ourselves. To date, more than 100 individuals and families—including board members, staff, new friends of the organization, and even a student from the very first Facing History classroom—have joined the Gordons by including Facing History in their estate plans. We are extraordinarily grateful to these individuals for their kindness to Facing History.

With careful planning, your estate can provide for loved ones and continue to benefit Facing History and Ourselves. Members of the Remembrance Society may include Facing History and Ourselves in their estate plans through the following vehicles: bequests, charitable remainder trusts, life insurance gifts, and retirement plan assets. If you would like more information about planned giving opportunities and how to become a member of the Remembrance Society, please contact the Development Office at +1-617-735-1603 (U.S. and Canada) or (011) 617-735-1628.

2014 TREASURER'S REPORT

A Message from

Elizabeth Jick

Treasurer and Chair of the Finance Committee

Fiscal year 2014 was another successful year of steady financial performance for Facing History. A healthy revenue pipeline, increased market penetration, and strong demand for Facing History's services led to an increased annual budget, from $23.6M in FY13 to $24.125M in FY14, enabling the organization to further invest in the excellence and reach of the programs and services it provides to teachers and students nationwide and internationally. Thanks to the generosity of our loyal supporters and the increase in number of new donors, Facing History again was able to conclude the year with a modest operating surplus.

FACING HISTORY RAISED $21.5M IN SUPPORT AND REVENUE.

Since 2001, Facing History has averaged a 3.1 percent surplus from operations while growing the operating budget from $9.7M to $24.125M. In FY14, Facing History secured $21.5M in Total Support and Revenue, thanks primarily to $12.1M in Unrestricted and $9.2M in Temporarily Restricted Contributions. Facing History's sources of non-philanthropic operating support totaled $2.25M. Facing History's Investments grew to $30M, the largest amount in the organization's history. Investment Income during FY14, including both realized and unrealized gains, totaled $2.4M. Consequently, investment distributions in support of operations were also the largest in the organization's history, at $594K. Per board policy, investment distributions are taken at 5 percent of the trailing three-year average of fund balances. Investment returns above this amount are reinvested to increase the long-term strength of our endowment.

OUR SUCCESS AT RAISING MULTIYEAR GRANTS AND PLEDGES IN FY14 ENABLED FACING HISTORY TO ENTER FY15 WITH MORE THAN 40 PERCENT OF THE ORGANIZATION'S PROJECTED EXPENSE BUDGET COVERED.

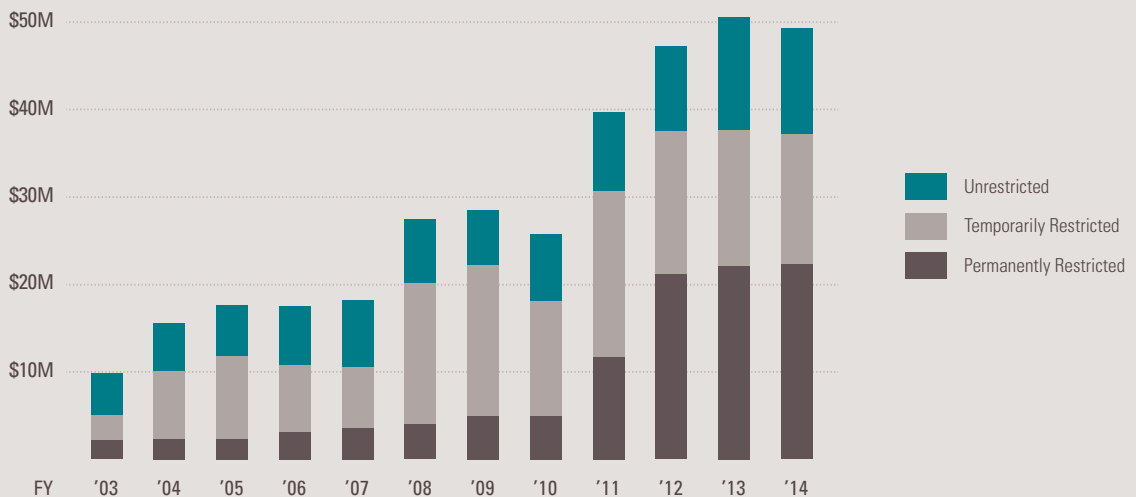

During FY14, previously secured multiyear pledges and grants made a significant contribution to our ability to deliver programs and serve teachers and students. Thanks to the dedication of our donors making multiyear commitments, more than 40 percent of total FY15 expenses were covered by funds secured in prior years, consistent with prior years' averages. These accomplishments allow Facing History to achieve greater impact and scale while maintaining our financial stability and resilience to market risk. Securing multiyear commitments plays a vital role in both strategies, which are critically important for Facing History and our plans for increased program impact and related larger expense budgets. Multiyear commitments provide us with confidence that we can successfully achieve Facing History’s long-term programming and sustainability goals.

FACING HISTORY’S NET ASSETS DECLINED SLIGHTLY TO $49.3M AT THE END OF FY14.

In FY14, Total Net Assets decreased 2.5 percent from $50.6M to $49.3M (see chart below), primarily due to a $3.5M decrease in Pledges and Grants Receivable as Facing History collected and spent prior donor commitments in support of programs. Cash and investments increased by 12 percent or $3.6M. Of that, Investments increased 13 percent from $26.6M to $30M. Cash and equivalents increased from $3.4M to 3.6M. Cash and Unrestricted Investments at the end of FY14 represented 6.9 months of Operating Expenses.

On behalf of the Board of Directors and Board of Trustees, I want to once again thank the members of the Finance, Audit and Investment Committees, and the organization’s management and staff for all their extraordinary work, unwavering support, and continued commitment to Facing History’s long-term financial sustainability and success.

Facing History and Ourselves acknowledges with great sadness the loss of our cherished friends and board members who passed away this year: Leon Bass, William Gold II, Philip Gordon, Nina Katz, Eugene Krieger, Dan Rothenberg, Maurice Vanderpol, and Merna Wechsler. We remain ever grateful to have been guided by their wisdom, learning so much from each. We will continue to be enriched by the time they shared with us.
